Garth Fagan Dance performs the Fagan Technique, which incorporates elements of modern, ballet, African and Afro-Caribbean dance to produce a truly unique art form. Known for their spontaneous jumps, lightening fast turns, and athleticism, the dancers will be teaching the technique and repertory for three weeks in their hometown of Rochester, New York. The company will develop beginners through pre-professional dancers to their next level of ability.

The Summer Movement Institute program invites all levels of dancers to take part in this three-week intensive workshop, the only place the Fagan Technique is taught! In addition to studying the Fagan Technique and learning repertory by Garth Fagan, students will have the opportunity to learn the art of movement invention through dance composition.

IN- PERSON

Students taking in-person classes will experience the Fagan Technique, Composition, and Repertory through instruction in 4 classes per day, 5 days per week.

The in-person program will also include:

- Classes & lectures on nutrition and music appreciation
- Mentoring by company members
- Field trips
- Final student showcase performance

Registration Fee- $30 Tuition (all levels)- $1,200

Rochester, New York

A former important stop on the Underground Railroad and one of the birthplaces of the Women's Rights Movement, is truly a city of strong history and culture. Rochester and its surrounding regions have long been famous for their many attractions: the Strong Museum of Play and the Rochester Museum and Science Center, Geva Theatre, the Memorial Art Gallery, the famous House in the George Eastman Museum, the Finger Lakes Wine Region surrounding the city and of course, Garth Fagan Dance. Rochester has also been called the "festival capital of the country" for the myriad of cultural and arts festivals that occur each year. The city, with its many academic institutions and opportunities, boasts a young population with a thriving social scene.
